At Sea

I spent part of the day resting, and getting caught up on my travel journal, the last two days in Rio de Janeiro have been exhausting for me. So many people, long lines, standing in the sun, heat and all the pushing and shoving didn't help. One guy cut me off, I lost my balance and almost fell down, good thing I had a wall to grab on to. so many crazy rude people. I'm looking forward to two days at sea. Tonight is the WHITE PARTY (Unforgettable fancy-dress party, make sure it's white: the color of pure chic). "Dancing Around the World" I did not stay up for the White Party, it was scheduled for 11:00pm and I'm usually asleep by then. I did wear white tonight for dinner and the theatre, Mother's white diamonds and my white linen suite.
