At Sea

On our way to Hanga Roa (Easter Island)

Tonights Theatre Show/Concert:

The Italian Singer Anna Vinci took us on a trip around the world with some of the greatest International successes.

Once a week I check with registration and get a copy of my bill because they are really good about overcharging, and they did not let me down. I had to make another trip to get my account in order. When we were in Paru we were told they would refund any excursions that we had prepaid and to my surprise they did credit my account for my paid excursion, but only to charge it back on my account today. I also had two other charges one was for Hot Chocolate, which I had with my breakfast, evidently i can only have Hot Chocolate for lunch and dinner, I commented you must be kidding and she said you need to read the fine print. So I was charged $4.03 for a cup of Hot Chocolate and the other was I had a glass of Tomato Juice ($4.26), evidently I can't have that for dinner if it is in a bottle. If it's in a glass it's OK but if it comes in a individual separate bottle that's not included (Read The Small Print Again). You would think that $3,500 for the drink package would cover these simple things. They really do nickel and dime you to death on this cruise.
